

11. Childrens Ride - Farncombe Broadwater and River Wey

Route Overview:

A simple 4km ride to do with children on pedals or adventurous balance bikers! Starting at Farncombe ride on pavements to Broadwater Lake. If you can ignore the excellent sand pit playground you visit the Waffle Van before carefully crossing the A3100 to the River Wey. Follow the towpath past the Manor Inn to Farncombe Boathouse, before turning right through Catteshall Lane and taking a sheltered footpath back into Farncombe.

You will have to push bikes up a short steep path to emerge on the road. Don't forget to admire the working canal lock on the other side of the road - if you are enjoying the towpath you can extend the route here into Godalming. (Photo 10). Turn right along Catteshall Lane - the footpaths do narrow until you reach the A3100 again. Cross the road using the traffic lights, emerging at the Leathern Bottle pub. Just after the pub turn left up a sheltered footpath (Photo 11). Carry up this path, crossing Fern Road and emerging near Farncombe St John's church. Opposite the church is Natter Cafe - always worth a stop, with outside seating also hidden at the rear. (Photo 12). Turn right and you'll see the return to Farncombe station on your left.
